ROOSEVELT SPEAKS TO BIG CROWD

Thousands Turned Away Unable to Get Into Columbus Meeting

GARFIELD CHALLENGES WILLIS ON TEMPERANCE ISSUE

REPUBLICANS DODGING

On This and Other Issues It is Charged—G. O. P. Managers See Hopes of a United Vote This Fall Fading Away.

Columbus, Sept. 29.—Every vestige of doubt as to the hold Theodore Roosevelt has upon Ohio audiences was set at rest Monday night in Columbus, when crowds jammed into Memorial Hall to hear him and as large or larger number were turned away, unable to get within hearing distance. He endorsed in toto the candidates of the Progressive party in Ohio and the meeting heard an unqualified arraignment of the Republican platform in Ohio, as well as the dodging, straddling tactics of its candidate for governor, Frank B. Willis, whose position on the liquor question has been open to question by many even in his own party, who favor an open avowal of principle from those seeking honors at the hands of the electorate.

The meeting was anything but encouraging to the Republican campaign managers, who could not but see that it meant a great inroad into a united vote this fall which they affected to hope for.

Everyone knew the big meeting was to begin at 8 o'clock. At 6 o'clock crowds began to arrive. By 7:25 every seat below, above and on the stage was taken and a cordon of police barred the doors against further ingress. Thousands, how many thousands it would be but guess work to try to state, bumped and battered against that cordon and left disappointed. It was one of the greatest, if not the greatest, political rallies ever held in Columbus. Three thousand persons would not leave the scene, but formed an outside audience, addressed by James R. Garfield, ex-Senator D. W. Williams, nominee for lieutenant governor; Frank Woods, nominee for secretary of state, and Rev. W. E. Cadmus of Illinois, and between speeches tore up copies of a doger, a bit of childish politics of Republican origin, intended to discourage attendance by denouncing the affair the opening of the "Cox Aid Society," and throw mud at the motives of Roosevelt, Garfield, Garfield and Chairman Brown.

Inside the hall Garfield was applauded when he told the audience "This doger has been cast by the party it represents, the dodging Republican." (Continued on Page 11, Col. 4.)

Siege of Antwerp Planned By Germans, in Case Victory Is Theirs in Present Battle

Rotterdam, Sept. 29, via London.—The activity along the Belgian frontier indicates that the Germans are planning for a siege of Antwerp within a few days. More than 25,000 men, German naval reserves, have been brought from the North Sea towns of Kiel and Hamburg to Brussels and are being held in readiness to serve on an improvised German fleet should Antwerp and Ostend be taken. As a direct result of this move the Dutch authorities along the Scheldt have increased their watchfulness for during a siege of Antwerp, England might like to send reinforcements through the Dutch Scheldt which would be a breach of neutrality, while on the other hand German victory would bring danger of an attempt on the part of Germany to use the mouth of the Scheldt as a base from which to attack the British naval forces in the North Sea.

Communication with Antwerp has been almost suspended. The town can be reached by automobiles while one small freight line from Rotterdam maintains a desultory daily service.

CHINESE TROOPS BLOW UP BRIDGE AND MAY FIGHT JAPAN

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Wei Hsien, Shan Tung, China, Sept. 29.—Chinese troops today blew up and destroyed the railroad bridge at Tayu Ho six miles west of here. The sound of the explosion could be heard in this city.

The above despatch is the first indication that Chinese troops have taken any active part in opposing the military operations of the Japanese in Shan Tung Province in the latter's campaign against the Germans in the leased territory of Kiaochow.

To facilitate this campaign the Japanese landed in Chinese territory. At this China protested, but the protest was ignored by Japan.

African Turcos Selecting Their Spoils of War In Front of a French Church.

This photograph shows an interesting incident of the French attack on the Germans retreating in Meaux district. The Turcos, the fierce African troops called to the aid of France, have stopped in front of a church at the village of Neufontier, after driving frightened Germans before them, to gather the equipment of the retreating soldiers. The accoutrements of the Germans, thrown in roads and fields as they fled, were picked up by the Turcos and piled in front of the church.

Russians, Belgians and French Indiscriminately Accused by Germans Of Violating Rules of Civilized Warfare

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Berlin, Sept. 29.—(Via wireless telegraph to Sayville, L. I.)—The German report on the sinking in the North Sea of the British cruisers Adoukir, Cressy and Hogue, by the German submarines U-9, declares that the entire engagement lasted one hour. The British cruisers did not fire a single shot. Contrary to English reports the U-9 was alone in this engagement. The British destroyers chased the U-9 until darkness fell, but were not successful in catching her.

News has been given out here that the German cruiser Emden, after sinking five British merchant steamers in the Gulf of Bengal, destroyed naval oil tank steamers at Madras. Other information made public in Berlin declares that the commander-in-chief of the Russian forces (Grand Duke Nicholas) has revoked the government's promise of autonomy for Poland, giving as his reason the fact that Polish riflemen fought on the Austrian side in the battle of Lemberg. It is explained by the commander-in-chief that a Polish constitution was to be granted only under the condition that all Poles were loyal. It is declared here in this same connection that Emperor Nicholas' manifesto to the Poles was worthless because it was given out without his signature.

Another story given out in Berlin is as follows:

"During the sortie from Antwerp, Belgian troops occupied the village of Linden, near Louvain, and took possession of a chateau belonging to the Dutch family of Van Blankenburgh, the members of which had at their own expense transformed their residences into a hospital. Forty wounded Belgians were being constantly nursed at the chateau, over which flew the Red Cross, and the Dutch flags by members of the Van Blankenburgh family. In spite of these facts the Belgians set fire to the village of Linden, and burned down the chateau. This act was a result of their hatred of the Dutch, whom they wrongly accuse of having permitted German troops to cross Southern Luxembourg."

Other stories made public in Berlin relate that the French bombardment of Cattaro, in Dalmatia, has been absolutely without success. One large French cruiser is described as having been sunk, while two are said to have been seriously damaged.

Russians are described as having stolen the famous private library of works of art from the castle of Prince Ossilinsky, in Lemberg. It is said that they carried their booty to Petrograd.

At a largely attended meeting in Berlin of men prominent in industry, commerce and agriculture, a resolution was adopted setting forth that the recent German war loan had been highly successful, and those present recorded their readiness to make any further sacrifices needed. They demanded also that the war be continued until such time as German successes were commensurate with the gigantic sacrifices entailed in securing a lasting peace for the future.

INVESTMENT OF TSING TAU IS NOW COMPLETE

Japanese Troops in Overwhelming Numbers Force Germans to Evacuate.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Peking, China, Sept. 29.—The Germans in Kiaochow have evacuated the Waldersee line of defense, before an overwhelming force of the enemy. Tsing Tau is now completely invested. The German losses were small.

This information is contained in a despatch received here from a German source at Tai-Nan, Sah Shan Tung, which evidently is a wireless communication from Tsing Tau. It adds that the Japanese armored cruiser squadron bombarded Tsing Tau Monday without doing any damage. Japanese official reports corroborate the foregoing and explain that the engagement occurred Monday morning.

They declare that the Germans are now on their main line of defense, Tsing Tau and occupy heights, which the German warships inside and two Japanese ships were engaged in fighting.

ENGLAND ADMITS STEAMERS SUNK BY THE GERMANS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

London, Sept. 29.—The official news bureau of the German government today admitted that the Emden has sunk a British ship and a collier.

The Emden is now operating in the Gulf of Bengal. She is reported to have been recently conducted to that port, and

CORPORATIONS MUST SETTLE BY OCTOBER 1

Over $1,000,000 Due State Is Still Outstanding and 15 per Cent Penalty Is Charged.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Columbus, Sept. 29.—Ohio corporations which do not settle with the state for their franchise tax of three twentieths of one per cent of their paid up capital stock by October 1, will be subject to a 15 per cent penalty, according to an announcement made today by state Treasurer John B. Brennan, who is responsible for the collection of the tax.

The total amount certified for collection is close to $2,000,000 and of this sum more than half is still outstanding. It is expected that most of this money will be paid in before the time expires. The treasurer will accept remittances after October 1, provided the postmark shows that they were mailed before that day.

BATTLE OF AISNE LULLS; INTEREST NOW EASTWARD

Where the Russian Operations Upon a Huge Scale Are Being Brought Nearer and Nearer to a Focus—Galicia Has Been Almost Cleared of Austrians According to Petrograd Reports—Germans Are Said to Be About to Begin Siege of Antwerp—Latest War News.

The terrific battle now in its 18th day in the Aisne district to the north of Paris continues to rage, but its violence is generally held to portend a decisive result in the near future. Furious hand-to-hand fighting is going on and the losses to both the allied and German armies are enormous.

Several times the Germans hurled their masses of troops against the French left wing, but in every case they were repulsed, according to the official statement issued by the French war department this afternoon. In the center, it is asserted, a heavy cannonading is going on while between the Argonne forest and the river Meuse, the allies have made some progress.

The German general staff, Berlin, advises say, claims that the situation on French soil has not changed, and it is emphatically denied that the battle at any point of the line is going in favor of the allies.

Galicia has been almost cleared of Austrians, according to an announcement at Petrograd, and the Russians, crossing the Carpathian mountains, have entered Hungary and are driving back the Austrian reinforcements sent against them. The invaders swept across the mountains into the Ungvar district, which is about 180 miles northeast of Budapest, the Hungarian capital.

Germans, estimated to number 150,000, are reported from Rotterdam, to be preparing for a siege of the Belgian fortress of Antwerp.

Austrian siege guns have been brought up to take the places of eight large German guns which are now being used in the fighting in the French district of Aisne. A Belgian official communication states that German heavy artillery fire directed at two forts ten miles from Antwerp ceased when the forts replied to the bombardment.

The activity of the Zeppelin dirigibles stretches over a wide area. Six bombs were hurled today at two Belgian towns, in one of which a convent was damaged and another German airship created a panic at the town of Bialystok, 60 miles across the Russian frontier.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Paris, Sept. 29.—The comparative calm on the French battle line yesterday after Sunday's storm of shot and shell, was a surprise. It was supposed that the extreme violence of the German attack meant a determination to finish the campaign on the Aisne by breaking the allies' lines at all costs and the pressure, it was expected, would continue, especially on the allies' left, where the Germans had brought up reinforcements.

The center, however, was the only point seriously attacked, probably on the supposition that the line here had been weakened to reinforce the left. One theory is that the armistice of four hours granted by the French for burying the dead was not sufficient, and that the invaders need the entire day to get rid of the bodies encumbering the trenches and another is that a further shifting of troops is in progress preparatory to a violent shock elsewhere, all efforts against the left having failed.

In any case the opinion is prevalent here that the Germans are losing valuable time and that a return of the bad weather will perhaps find them still burrowed in the chalky clay of the Aisne district and that they will again be forced to uncover themselves by invading floods. The military operations in the extreme east in the Vosges and Alsace have been hindered by bad weather as (Continued on Page 11, Col. 4.)

Situation of Allies' Armies Described With Much Detail In the French Official Report

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Paris, Sept. 29.—On our left wing along the river Somme, the French official statement issued this afternoon says. The Germans attempted numerous attacks which the allies repulsed.

The text of the statement is as follows: "First—On our left wing, to the north of the Somme and between the Somme and the Oise, the enemy both by day and by night delivered several attacks which have, however, been repulsed. To the north of the Aisne there has been no change."

"Second—On the center, in Champagne, and to the east of the Argonne, the enemy has restricted his activities to heavy cannonading. Between the Argonne and the Meuse there has been slight progress on the part of our troops who are confronted by strongly organized positions."

"On the heights of the Meuse in the Woerth district and on our right wing, in Lorraine and the Vosges, there has been notable modification in the situation."

Generally speaking, our line runs from the east to the west through the region of Pont-a-Mousson, Apremont and the Meuse, through the region of Saint Mihiel, along the heights to the north of Spada and through a portion of the heights of the Meuse. To the southeast of Verdun, between Verdun and Reims, the general front is indicated by a line passing through the region of Varennes, to the north of Souain and the Roman road which runs into Reims, the outposts of Reims, the road from Reims to Berry and Bac, and the heights known as the Chemin des dames."

"On the right bank of the Aisne this line then draws near to the Aisne and continues into the region of Soissons. Between Soissons and the forest of Aisne it runs over the first plateau on the right bank of the Aisne. Between the Oise and the Somme this line runs along the front from Ribecourt (which belongs to us) to Launoy (occupied by the enemy) to Roye (which belongs to us) and to Chaumes (in the possession of the enemy)."

"To the north of the Somme the line continues along the plateau between Albert and Comblis. We again took many prisoners during the day of yesterday. They belong principally to the Seventh active corps and the Seventh reserve corps of the German army, and also to the 10th, 12th, 15th and 19th German army corps."

Licking County Fair Throws Open Its Gates To the Public Today

The Licking county fair opened today under favorable weather conditions and will continue until Friday evening. The grounds are a mass of tents, booths and exhibits and during today hundreds of people thronged the grounds preparing for the big exhibition which will in actuality begin Wednesday morning when the gates are thrown open to the public.

The displays and exhibits this year are greater than ever before. In the old theatre building the entire space is given over to the different grangers of the county and there is a rivalry for the generous prizes offered. This display should be seen by every fair visitor for it is one that is never equaled outside of the state fair. The dance hall on the left of the driveway is filled with grains, grasses, fruits, vegetables, etc. It is splendidly arranged. The farm horticultural and dairy department is under the supervision of S. S. Cooper of Thornville, Ohio.

J. M. Jones of Granville is superintendent of the fine arts hall and it is filled to overflowing with one of the finest exhibits ever seen on the grounds, consisting of cut flowers, hand painted china, needle work, household fabrics and baking, in fact about everything found in the household.

The agricultural society has set aside a large tract of ground for the display of vehicles and agricultural implements, which embraces vehicles and machinery of every description. There is a fine display of automobiles, buggies and wagons and twenty firms are represented. The display is located to the right of the driveway and the buzzing machinery can be heard by all.

The display of stock and poultry exceeds that of any other year and fair visitors should not neglect to visit those exhibits as well as also the speed stables. These departments will prove of interest to sight seers as well as to those engaged in raising either stock or poultry.

The midway is a place of amusement for the old as well as the young and there are all kinds of entertainments. A large merry go round or carousel has been erected also motordrome and there are numbers of striking machines, baby racks, cane racks, country store, fortune tellers, etc. There are plenty of soft drink and lunch stands along the midway also.

The Fleming Amusement company gave a free exhibition today and will give two daily performances throughout the fair. Their act consists of mid air. Their act consists of mid air. Their act consists of mid air.

Another free act is that of Prof. O. Davis, who made a big hit in this city on Labor Day in his rope walking. He has been engaged by the fair board to walk daily a rope stretched from the tip of one of the tallest trees across the track to the main ground.

President J. J. Hill of the agricultural society has secured a couple who is willing to be married at the fair. The ceremony will occur Thursday morning at 11 o'clock just across the ring on the stand in front of the grand stand and will be performed by President Hill, who is a justice of the peace. The newlyweds will be given many useful presents donated by local merchants. The couple will be met at the gate by the band and marched through the grounds to the stand.

There will be three days excellent racing, the program beginning promptly at 12:30 each day. A special $500 purse has been offered for the 2:17 pace Thursday and there is a big field of horses entered. The running races will also be exciting.

There is a promise of fine weather for the balance of the week and record breaking crowds at the fair are bound to result. Take a day off and visit one of the best and biggest county fairs in the state.

Lobert, the third baseman of the Philadelphia National League team, will be made manager of the club at a meeting of the directors of the organization to be held this week.

The contract of Charles S. Doolin, who has managed the Philadelphia team for several years, expires with the close of the present season. Lobert has been with the local team since 1911 when he figured in a big trade between Philadelphia and Cincinnati clubs.

DILLON BESTS MANTELL WHO BOXED GAMESLY

Columbus, O., Sept. 29.—Jack Dillon, of Indianapolis, was given the newspaper decision over Frank Mantell, of Pawtucket, R. I., in their twelve-round battle here last night. Mantell fought gamesly, but Dillon was his master in nearly every round.

George Watson, of Columbus was declared winner over Dick Stosh of Cleveland. The men fought eight rounds.

Artie Root of Cleveland, out-classed Joe Nelson, of Indianapolis, and the latter was so badly beaten in the fourth round that Referee Hughes stopped the bout.

Bobby Trot, of Columbus, all but knocked out Jim Burns, of Birmingham, Ala., before the middle of the first round. The referee ended the mill.

At the battle of Gettysburg, in 1863, the defeated Confederates lost 31,000 out of 70,000 engaged, or 44 per cent. At Waterloo, in 1815, the defeated French lost 24 per cent of 124,000 men engaged, and the victors at 10 per cent of their 214,000 men. In their case, however, little of the fighting was done by the Prussians, the bulk of the losses being borne by the British and Belgians. At Zorndorf, in 1758, the Prussians had 37,000 men and lost 11,000, or 30 per cent, while the Russians, with 50,000 men, lost 24,000 or 48 per cent.

Mr. Willis' Record.

Congressman Willis who is the Republican candidate for governor of Ohio has opposed President Wilson's policy of giving peace and prosperity to the people of the United States. He has upheld stand-patters Mann and Humphrey, opposed tariff revision, opposed currency reform and the emergency insurance bill to furnish an outlet for the congested farm products. He sneered at Wilson's "Watchful Waiting." Mr. Willis was a reactionary as a member of the Ohio state legislature.

Mr. Willis voted against abolition of prison contract labor.

Mr. Willis voted against the eight-hour day on public work.

Mr. Willis voted against the referendum of franchises to electors.

Mr. Willis voted against the system of state normal schools.

Mr. Willis voted against the bill to abrogate the fellow servant rule.

Mr. Willis voted for the acceptance of the "Whitewash" report of the examination of the state treasury.

Mr. Willis voted for the bill giving the Governor power to appoint police commissioners (aimed at Mayor Jones of Toledo.)

Mr. Willis was with the reactionary element on every proposition.

And the record of Congressman Willis is against President Wilson. A vote for Mr. Willis is a slap at President Wilson.

Fire Prevention Day.

In Ohio last year fire exacted a toll of nearly nine million dollars in the property of citizens and many lives besides. In a large measure this great waste can be prevented as a great majority of fires are due to negligence or carelessness. Observation of care in the construction and management of property will prevent many fires. By keeping the premises free from rubbish and loose papers, by inspection of flues, by examination of electrical wiring, by the elimination of rubber hose gas connections, by placing zinc under stoves and by keeping stoves re-

A Bad Blunder.

(Canton News.) Gov. Cox certainly made a bad political blunder in putting the authors' pens on law on his program and in asserting his passages by the legislature. Here he is responsible for the action of the state or Ohio in paying hundreds of thousands of dollars to the needy mothers of the state—and not one of them has a vote.

Leadership Needed.

Mr. Willis says if the people will only elect him governor, he will be content to sit in the state house and attend to the routine business only—the business that any ordinary clerk can do. But the people are looking for a leader, such as Woodrow Wilson was when Governor of New Jersey and such as James M. Cox has been since Governor of Ohio. Governor Cox is a great leader and in no sense a boss. There is a wide difference between a leader and a boss.

No Backward Steps.

Mr. Willis seems anxious to turn back the hands of the Progressive dial a decade or two,—back to the time when there were well-beaten paths from the state treasurer to certain pet banks and when the supremacy of Mark Hanna was distinctly noticeable in every nook and corner of republican machine politics.

Mr. Willis is one of those fellows who puts his hands to the plow and then looks back to the days of corrupt machine rule when the Judges of the Supreme Court were nominated by the "interests" and rendered their decisions accordingly. But Willis can not lead the people back to those days. The people nominate the Judges themselves.

There is no big paper bill for those who take the Newark Advocate by mail. All subscriptions are paid in advance and all papers are discontinued at the expiration of subscription. You are safe from a big paper bill if you take the Advocate.

Asked for his opinion regarding a certain well known political speaker, reply was made that he lacked proper terminal facilities. This might also be said of some of the battles of Europe.

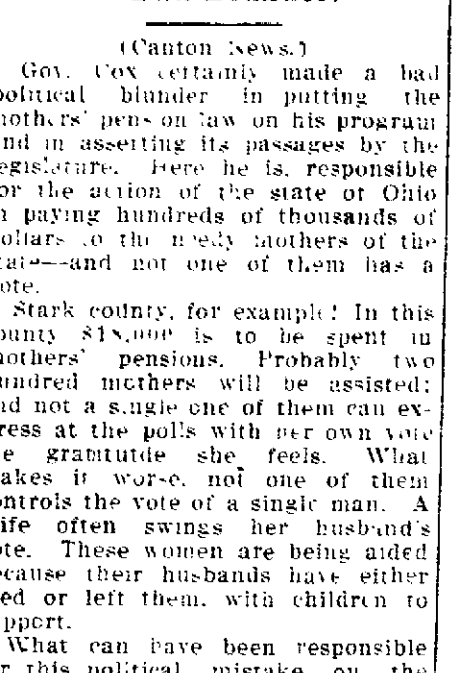

Men who approved of Mark Hanna methods in Ohio politics are now crying "machine." It makes one smile.

War's Death Cost.

(Leslie's Weekly.) Conservative estimates place the losses of the Allies for the first five weeks of the war at 150,000 and those of the Germans for the same period at 200,000. According to the best information Germany has more than 2,000,000 men on her various battle lines so that in five weeks she has lost 10 per cent of her engaged forces. The total number is appalling, yet by comparison the losses of either side have not been heavy. In our own battle of Gettysburg there were 52,000 Federals and 73,000 Confederates engaged and the total losses were Federals 24,000, or 29 per cent, and Confederates, 20,450, or 28 per cent. At the battle of Gettysburg, in 1863, the defeated Confederates lost 31,000 out of 70,000 engaged, or 44 per cent. At Waterloo, in 1815, the defeated French lost 24 per cent of 124,000 men engaged, and the victors at 10 per cent of their 214,000 men. In their case, however, little of the fighting was done by the Prussians, the bulk of the losses being borne by the British and Belgians. At Zorndorf, in 1758, the Prussians had 37,000 men and lost 11,000, or 30 per cent, while the Russians, with 50,000 men, lost 24,000 or 48 per cent.

New Mexican War.

For the United States, the beginning of another civil war in Mexico is dangerous far beyond the utmost possible limits of its importance in a military sense. It may look like a disorderly scuffle by comparison with the tremendous struggle in Europe, but it is nevertheless a grave menace to American interests and even to American peace. Villa's revolt begins with much greater strength than the Constitutionalist rebellion against Huerta had at the outset. * * * Meanwhile the relations of the United States with Mexico must be very dangerous and difficult. The patience of the president and of congress may be tried to the utmost limit of endurance. —Cleveland Leader.

South American Trade.

It is to be hoped that the postoffice department may find it practicable to carry out the suggestion for a 2-cent postage rate on all letters throughout the western hemisphere. If we are really serious in our campaign for South American trade, we must establish more intimate relations with the republics to the south of us, and one of the important details is closer mail communications. We must, among other things, make it easier to send money orders. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

President is Right.

President Wilson's action with regard to offensive statements made in the United States by foreign diplomats comes none too soon, nor can it be too vigorously followed up. * * * President Wilson has done well to emphasize the fact that the American people feel entirely capable of formulating their own policies in external affairs and are not disposed to tolerate attempts to manufacture and use American sentiment as a foreign asset. —Chicago Herald.

Chicago's Union Depot.

The agreement at Chicago upon the terms for the construction of a $65,000,000 union depot, is not to be taken as carrying out the purpose of a union depot in its largest sense. Very important railroad lines have more or less creditable depots outside of the one planned. But the building arranged for under this agreement will shelter a number of leading lines, including the Pennsylvania railroad, Lake Shore, Burlington and other routes. A very important business will consequently be done there. —Pittsburg Dispatch.

Pointed Observations

Buying Early.

An Atchison man will never do his Christmas shopping early again. Recently he saw a piece of dry goods that he admired and bought several yards, with the view of giving it to his wife for Christmas. He hid the goods in his office, and the other day his wife, while in his office, found the package, and is now accusing him of buying dresses for other women. She has been crying for three days and has consulted nine lawyers. —Atchison Globe.

By the Way

Licking Fair Starts Today. The county fair looms everywhere. Each farmer takes a rig and goes to see the blooded bee. Also the fatted pig.

The mammoth squash evokes a "Gee!" The farmer moves along. Inspecting cakes or patent rakes. Amid a happy throng.

He long he seeks the sideshow freaks. The dances have much charm. Such things as these not only please, but help a fellow farm.

A non-committal attitude is never satisfactory to anybody. If a man claims to have seen a ghost, he wants you to pretend to believe in them.

About the only distinction the average married man may hope to achieve is that of being a good provider.

Buck Kilby, who is married, says his idea of a sensible man is a bachelor.

You can not win many votes by argument. The easiest and surest way to be elected is to pretend to love the "people."

The difference between a woman's new hat and a man's new hat is that a man's new hat is an acquired taste and one must become accustomed to it by degrees.

The advantage to those who peddle intellectual mush is that there always is a market for their product.

The name of the man who attends strictly to his own business seldom appears in the list of innocent bystanders who were shot during the fight.

THE WEATHER.

The weather still is free to all; to lordly baron in his hall, to tiller of the ground; the queenly dame has all she wants, and in the washerwoman's haunts there's weather by the pound. No greedy dealer can remark, "Alas! the prospect's pretty dark, with war in foreign states; our native weather won't suffice, and so we've had to raise the price three bucks per dozen crates." No trusts, to head coin in their tills, can buy up smaller weather mills, and corner the supply; no Wall street pirates with their snares can elch the weather unaware, and send the price sky high. We're paying more for cheese and bread, for meat and milk and melted lead, for all the things we wear; for coffins, codfish, corn and cakes, for ruins rinkums, rags and rakes, for bear grease for our hair. We're paying more for all we use, for shaves, for sugar and shampoos, for rough on rats and rice; but still the good old weather's free, Dame Nature's gift to you and me—they can't raise the price! What though all other boons may fall? What though we all may go to jail, as bankrupts, shorn of scads? No tyrant hand can from us wrest the blessing that we love the best—the weather of our dads!

Five Dogs Killed in Last 10 Days Had Rabies; Many Persons Have Been Bitten

With the positive knowledge that at least five dogs have been suffering from rabies within the past ten days, the local health department has issued a warning to residents to be on the lookout for rabid dogs and to guard against possible infection from such diseased canines.

The latest case to develop was that of a dog in Andover street which was killed Sunday and the head sent to Columbus for examination. The report reached the department Tuesday morning that the animal had rabies.

The cases have been found in such widely scattered parts of the city that the department is apprehensive lest these dogs bit others before being killed. It is probable that this is true and therefore, everything is set for a good sized epidemic unless the Newark people co-operate with the city officials in an effort to stamp out the disease. At the request of the health department, the police this morning killed a number of dogs.

The health department's warning asks people to be cautious about petting or handling any animal that is sick or is acting strangely. Such animals should be penned up for ten days observation. If the animal is still alive at that time, it is reasonable to suppose that it is free from the disease.

Rabies may develop in an animal within a few days or a few weeks, says the statement of the health department. The symptoms may be a change in the animal's disposition. It may become irritable, and cross, with an inclination to snap at anyone or anything near it. Food is refused and the animal sometimes chews sticks, dirt, leaves, etc., or it may run about barking, growling, snapping. Sometimes if left unmolested, it becomes dull and acts sleepily.

Often the symptoms are such that the dog's keeper is deceived in not taking too many chances, resulting in a bite being inflicted which may cause trouble.

The only other safe method of diagnosis of rabies is to kill the animal without disturbing the brain, remove the head and send it to the state laboratories for a bacteriological examination.

"The saliva or froth, from a rabid dog, is as dangerous as a bite from the animal," declared Dr. Knauss Tuesday. "This saliva is alive with the germ which causes rabies and should it reach any portion of broken skin, rabies is almost sure to develop."

In connection with the danger of a rabies epidemic, Police Chief Sheridan stated Tuesday that the police department has killed nearly 300 dogs already this year. As a result of his slaughter, many homeless and worthless dogs have been sent to dog-heaven and the city has been bettered by their departure.

In many cases, the officers have met with opposition in their efforts to kill dogs in various parts of the city. While there are but a few valuable dogs, most all of them are the pets of children who cry piteously to save the life of their playmate.

Ladies' Hair Dressing in London and Paris. By Constance

When I was in Europe this year I found both cities so thickly dotted with hairdressing parlors and hair goods stores that I wondered if the women ever had time for anything but care of the hair. Personally I was chiefly interested in finding a really good shampoo and I found that they never use make for shampooing only, and I was happily surprised when several inquired each brought the suggestion that our own American made canthrox shampoo is best. They like it because in addition to being perfectly safe and making the hair free from all dandruff, excess oil and dust, it is so simple to get canthrox from any druggist and just dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, knowing you will then have a preparation that makes the hair not only entirely clean but so fluffy that it appears very heavy. Canthrox stimulates the scalp to healthy action, making the head feel good, and the hair look good.—Adv.

ADMISSION TO LICKING FAIR IS 25 CENTS

A report has been circulated in certain parts of the city that the admission to the fair this year had been advanced from 25 to 30 cents.

The circulation of such a report evidently was a misunderstanding on the part of some one as it is hardly probable that it could have been done with a malicious intent. The admission to the big exhibition is 25 cents and all children under 8 years are admitted free. Reserved seats in the grand stand 15 cents and the same price for admission to the quarter stretch.

Mabel Rhinehart has brought suit against John Rhinehart in common pleas court for divorce. She states that she was married to defendant Sept. 29, 1910 and that one child was born to them and is now twenty months of age. She charges her husband with cruelty in assaulting her and striking her with his fist. She also states that he has been guilty of adultery on numerous occasions and names the respondents. She asks for a decree of divorce and the custody of the child.

Finesse of Forger Again in Evidence, When Franklin Bank Received Several Bogus Checks

Two more checks purporting to have been issued by the Graves-Manning manufacturing company, Newark, O., and drawn on the Commercial Bank & Trust company, one signed by D. C. Graves, manager, and the other by the same man with the title of treasurer, reached the Franklin National bank Tuesday from a correspondent at Cleveland.

Sixteen or eighteen of these fraudulent checks have been received by the Franklin bank within the past few weeks and of course all have been protested.

The swindle is a new and clever one, none of the local bankers having any knowledge of the system being used before.

The operator has gone to the trouble of having the checks printed, bearing the name of a fictitious firm as well as a bank which does not exist.

He operates far enough from Newark to be reasonably sure that his fraud will not be discovered until he is far enough away to save himself from pursuit.

Endorsements on the backs of the checks indicate that the last two were cashed in Troy, S. C., and Mt. Airy, N. C. The other checks are from the same section of the country.

It is apparent that the checks were cashed by small business concerns and being drawn for amounts less than $20 it is probable that little trouble was experienced in getting the money for them. In each case the checks went through a half dozen or more banks before reaching Newark, where the fraud was discovered. The time elapsing between the issuing of the check and the discovery of the fraud gives the check crook plenty of time to make his getaway.

The checks received today were made payable to C. N. Coburn and C. B. Smith. The Coburn check was endorsed by E. F. Hollingsworth at Troy, and the Smith check by Albert Jessup at Mt. Airy.

The local police department has been asked to aid in placing information of the fraud in the hands of bankers and business men in the South, in an effort to apprehend the crook.

DECISIONS

OF SUPREME COURT WERE HANDLED DOWN TODAY IN IMPORTANT CASES.

Blank Ballots in Box in Municipal Bond Election Not Counted in Total Vote.

Associated Press Telegram.
Columbus, Sept. 29.—The Supreme court today handed down decisions in seven cases on the general docket and disposed of thirty cases on the motion docket. Among the cases which were watched with general interest, a Columbiana county case, that of the city of Wellsville against William C. Connor, which decided that in a municipal bond issue election where a two-thirds vote is necessary to carry, blank ballots found in the ballot box are not counted in determining the total number of votes. The lower courts were overruled by this decision.

The court affirmed the decision of the Hamilton county courts in the matter of the liquidation of the Metropolitan Bank & Trust company, thereby deciding that the bank, and not its directors, are liable to the Second City National bank, on a note of $20,000.

John W. Taylor and others of Toledo won over the Toledo & Indiana railroad company, in their efforts to make the company enforce a five cent fare contract for transportation from Dor street road to the business section of the city.

On the motion docket the court allowed the motions filed by the city of Cleveland for an order directing the Court of Appeals of Cuyahoga county, to certify its record in the cases of the five Cleveland policemen who obtained judgments for back pay from the city amounting to about $2600 apiece for the same time they were suspended from the force. The motions that were filed by Mars E. Wager and Effie S. Wager in their cases against the city of Lakewood were all turned down and the two motions filed by the city of Lakewood to dismiss the cases were allowed. These cases were the outcome of trouble over real estate in Lakewood between the city and the Wagers.

The court allowed a motion for an order directing the Court of Appeals of Cuyahoga county to certify its record in the case of William J. Ward and others against the Cleveland railway company. This case involves the question as to the right of a public service corporation to disregard restrictive covenants in property deeds. The plaintiffs were refused an injunction in the lower courts to prevent the railway company from building a right of way in the Whitehouse addition in Cleveland over lots that had been sold with restrictive covenants. The case will now be heard by the Supreme court.

The decision of the Montgomery county courts in the suit of Reuben Koch against the board of education of the Philadelphia school district was upheld. Koch will receive the claim of $1,410 allowed him by the lower courts for salary due him as school superintendent.

After he had been elected superintendent, the board refused to allow him to serve and he sued for breach of contract.

MEXICAN CRISIS NOW AWAITING A CONFERENCE

BETWEEN LEADERS OF VILLA AND CARRANZA NOW BEING HELD

Catholics at Baltimore Want no Government Recognized Without Religious Liberty.

Associated Press Telegram.
Washington, Sept. 29.—Developments in the Mexican situation today awaited the outcome of the conference between Carranza and Villa, leaders. The feeling of optimism prevailed in administration circles where officials hoped the elimination of both Carranza and Villa as presidential candidates would heal the breach and bring peace.

At the cabinet meeting the situation was discussed and Secretary Bryan brought late despatches from the consular agents in Mexico.

CARDINAL GIBBONS AND BISHOP'S HAVE A REPORT ADOPTED.

Associated Press Telegram.
Baltimore, Sept. 29.—Following a conference today with Cardinal Gibbons, Bishops in attendance upon the convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies, adopted a report protesting against the recognition by the United States of any government in Mexico that does not guarantee religious liberty. This report was later adopted by the convention and it was decided to send a delegation to Washington this afternoon to lay the whole matter of alleged atrocities upon Catholics in Mexico before President Wilson. The resolution was prepared by Bishops Joseph Schrembs, of Toledo, Ohio, J. A. McFall of Trenton, N. J., and Rev. Richard Tierney, S. J., an authority on Mexican conditions.

The resolution, the text of which was not made public, it is understood, denounces the outrages which it alleges are being perpetrated against Catholics in Mexico; deplores "the silence of the press" upon the subject, calls on this government to "right the wrongs" and urges the president not to recognize any government in Mexico "which does not guarantee civil and religious liberty in its fullest sense."

THOUGHT SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Unionville, Mo.—"I suffered from a female trouble and I got so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without holding on to something. I had nervous spells and my fingers would cramp and my face would draw, and I could not speak, nor sleep to my good, had no appetite, and everyone thought I would not live."

Some one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had taken so much medicine and my doctor said he could do me no good so I told my husband he might get me a bottle and I would try it. By the time I had taken it I felt better. I continued its use, and now I am well and strong.

"I have always recommended your medicine ever since I was so wonderfully benefited by it and I hope this letter will be the means of saving some other poor woman from suffering."

Mrs. MARTHA SEAVEY, Box 1144, Unionville, Missouri.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE ALONG HEALTH LINES

Baltimore and Ohio Taking Advanced Steps for Protection of Milk Shipments.

Advanced steps in the interest of public health have been taken by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad with the placing of four modern and sanitary dairy refrigerator cars in service to handle milk daily between points in Ohio, and the Pittsburg market.

The new cars which were built in the Mount Clare shops, at Baltimore, according to specifications approved by the United States Department of Agriculture, will insure the arrival of milk in Pittsburg at a temperature of 45 degrees below the creamer's at Ravenna, Newton Falls, Chardon, East Chardon, West Farmington, Painesville, Chicago Junction and intermediate points after a run of 5 hours. All possibility of the growth of bacteria while milk is in transit is removed, health authorities and railroad officials stating that the new cars will retain their uniform temperature for 48 hours with but one thing when the thermometer registers 99 degrees.

The interior finish of the cars is of white enamel, affording every precaution against the harboring of germs and in harmony with the general clean appearance. The cars are the same type of appearance as postal cars, being 60 feet long and so constructed as to provide practically hermetical sealings, which is essential in the hauling of milk for long distances from dairy regions to central markets.

"Milk Refrigerator" is lettered on their sides in gold leaf. The cars have double floors of yellow pine and covered with "flexolith," the most improved sanitary floor covering in use. The material permits of a thorough flushing of the cars in cleaning the equipment.

The cars are designed for brine refrigeration and represent the highest development in scientific refrigeration of milk. In each end are ice bunkers, extending from floor to roof, containing six brine tanks in which are carried ice and salt. Two bulkheads 5 inches thick with refrigerator doors, are built across the cars on each side of the center doorways, thus creating two cold storage compartments with a floor space of 176 feet each and with capacity for 20 ten-gallon cans.

Milk dealers in Pittsburg, including the Harmony Creamery Company, Ohio and Pittsburg Dairy Company and the Charles E. Reick Company took an active interest in having the cars placed in service on the Baltimore and Ohio lines. It was the result of prolonged effort by the Department of Agriculture that every safeguard be taken for the protection of milk from deterioration en route which suggested the new cars. The practice of dealers is to pre-cool before loading, so that the new cars will avoid a change in temperature and prevent bacterial growth.

The average haul of milk to the Pittsburg market is 120 miles, from points in northern Ohio, but the possibility of contamination while in the new-designed cars has been removed. Experts from the Department of Agriculture are showing keen interest in the new equipment, and it is likely that the specifications will be adopted as the standard in the future construction of dairy cars. Daily records of the temperature are being taken, together with data as to the quantity of ice consumed and other information bearing on changed conditions in dairy product transportation through the advent of the new cars.

Before the cars were put in service a few days ago they were opened for public inspection and were visited by health authorities, physicians, milk dealers and representatives of the press. The cars are in regular service between Chicago Junction and Pittsburg, at which points icing stations have been established. They are expected to make a round trip before being re-packed and will arrive in Pittsburg from Chicago Junction and Painesville on train No. 10, at 10:10 p. m.

ENEMIES CHARGE EMASCULATION OF ANTI-TRUST BILL

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, Sept. 29.—Debate on the Clayton anti-trust bill conference agreement before the Senate was continued today. The fight on the measure is being led by Senator Reed of Missouri, assisted by Senators Nelson, Borah and Kenyon for the Republican side.

Sensor Reed is making a vigorous attack on the bill, asserting that the conference had so emasculated it as to repudiate the Democratic platform and the wishes of President Wilson as outlined in his trust message to congress. The Republicans also contend that the measure has been emasculated. When consideration of the bill was resumed today the opponents of the measure were ready to continue their attacks.

Theatres

"The Talker" at the Auditorium Theatre Tonight.

Miss Winifred St. Claire will present "The Talker" at the Auditorium theatre tonight. Miss St. Claire and her company played to a capacity audience last night and every one in the house was well pleased with this popular young star and her excellent company. Miss St. Claire will continue to present New York successes at the Auditorium Theatre all this week.

The story of "The Talker" is a modern one and deals with a modern situation. The plot is very interesting and the play is sure to please you.

"The Talker" is a woman who is dissatisfied with her lot in life, having been unfortunate enough as she seems to have married a man who works for a salary and can not afford to give her all the luxuries of life, including an automobile, servants, handsome gowns and the many other things that some women crave.

She takes automobile rides with other men and can not see any harm in such an occasion as that, her actions influence her sister-in-law who is a great deal younger than herself to do things that she would not have otherwise thought of.

Her advance ideas regarding marriage and the responsibilities of each one of the contracting parties give rise to many alarming situations. Her influence upon her sister-in-law causes her to run away with a married man, who deserts her in a big city; penniless and friendless. Upon her return to the home of her brother she finds that "The Talker" has found out many truths and in the end everything is fixed to the entire satisfaction of all parties concerned.

"Alice of Old Vincennes" at Auditorium Wednesday Matinee and Night.

The old-fashioned flint lock muskets and pistols which Miss Winifred St. Claire uses in the first acts of "Alice of Old Vincennes" which she will offer at the Auditorium theatre Wednesday of this week are of more than usual historical interest. While they are now being used in a stage battle it is also recorded they have seen actual service in several real battles with Indians and the English during the war of 1776, and did duty during the entire siege of Vincennes.

The weapons were presented to Miss St. Claire by C. C. Horton, a distant relative of Cap. C. G. Clark, who commanded the fort of Vincennes, and a resident of Vincennes, Indiana, near which the various scenes of "Alice of Old Vincennes" are placed. While they had been in the possession of the Horton family for over a hundred and twenty-seven years it was recorded in the family history that the muskets and pistols had formerly belonged to the French troops and were picked up on the battlefield of the upper Wabash river.

The story of "Alice of Old Vincennes" is well known to nearly every man, woman and child in the city of Newark and the capable manner in which Miss St. Claire presents this well known play is sure to please you.

Something Worth While.

Manager Stephan Manis of the Auditorium Tuesday closed a contract with Rodney J. Diegel for his thrilling exposition of prison life in which over 4,000 feet of perfect motion pictures are shown depicting scenes taken from actual prison life. Mr. Diegel has been in public life ever since he first entered the newspaper field at Columbus over twenty-five years ago. He is known to hundreds of Newarkites and has visited this city on many occasions. His career has been an active and busy one up until the time of his confinement in the Ohio Penitentiary while serving as Sergeant-at-arms of the Ohio senate. Regarding his imprisonment he says: "In my own heart I know that I am not guilty and I hold no resentment against any living person."

Mr. Diegel for years has been known as one of the state's most pleasing public speakers. He portrays with vivid realism in describing the pictures the inside workings of the mammoth prison in its colossal entirety. Every scene is described by Mr. Diegel. It is said to be the most remarkable presentation of its kind in existence. Over 4,000 feet of actual moving pictures have been made under Mr. Diegel's personal supervision, covering every phase of the big Ohio prison from the days of the old stockade, up to the present time. These pictures portray with vivid realism the actual inside working of the penitentiary.

It is positively the first and only genuine motion pictures ever made behind the penitentiary walls. Mr. Diegel's exposition of prison life will be given at the Auditorium Sunday and Monday, Oct. 4 and 5, matinee and evening at 2:15 and 8:15. It will be well worth seeing and no doubt will be greeted with crowded houses.

"Sari" Tuesday, Oct. 6th.

The Hungarian "Dance of Death," used to be performed at the Close of Funeral Rites and has always occupied an important place in Hungarian music; it used to occupy an equally important place in the daily life of the Hungarians. No Hungarian light or grand opera is complete without at least one typically national dance. Emmerich Kalman's operetta triumph, "Sari," which Henry W. Savage will present at the Auditorium, Tuesday, Oct. 6th is no exception.

The Hungarians have always been noted for their love of music. In sacrifices, at religious observances, national festivals, before and after battle, at banquets, funerals, weddings, etc., song, music and the dance played an important part. Up until about a century ago the "Dance of Death" was performed at the close of all funeral rites. At the funeral itself the cantor took leave of his dead in a mournful song, then the mourners assembled at a banquet at the home of the sorrowing family. There the "Dance of Death" took place. The music of one of the most popular of these death dances was composed by the famous Zinka Panna in the early eighteenth century.

"Sari" shows the "Hazazaa," the wildest, most rollicking, foolish, funniest dance that ever came out of Hungary. It kept New York in a good humor all last season.

"Sari" will be the first musical attraction to play the Auditorium theatre this season. "Sari" is produced by Henry W. Savage, whose productions have never failed to please the theatre-goers of Newark.

(Above advertisement was reprinted in Eckman's Alternative has been proven to many years (see to be most effective) and a number of operations in a hospital failed to benefit me. In the meantime a friend of mine advised Eckman's Alternative. The wounds in my neck were still open and in a frightful condition when I started to take it. After using two bottles I found I was improving, having gained weight, could eat and was able to sleep. I continued using it until I was cured, which took November, 1910. On November 11, 1910 I started to work and since that time I have not lost a day's work through sickness. I highly recommend Eckman's Alternative to all who are suffering from gland trouble."

BOTH

OLD BOER HERO APPRAIA TO HIS COUNTRYMEN TO SUP. PORT ENGLAND

Clashes the inefficiency of Their Neutrality and Points Out Germany's Righter Designs.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) London, Sept. 29.—A despatch to the Reuters Telegram Company from Cape Town says that in the course of a speech addressed to five thousand people at the town of Bank, in the Transvaal, Gen. Louis Botha, premier of South Africa, emphasized the necessity of loyalty to the British empire.

Declaring that the policy of neutrality was absolute nonsense, he pointed out that if a German warship came to Durban and imposed a levy of five million pounds sterling on them it would help the people very little to say that they were neutral.

General Botha said that he was animated through a sincere love of his people and wished to put the position truly before them. There were only two courses open, first, loyalty and help and second, disloyalty and treason. There was no middle course.

The German tortoise, General Botha went on to say, had for once stuck its head too far out and was in grave danger of being trodden upon. He justified the exhortation of South Africans to support the imperial government. He said he had information regarding German ambitions concerning South Africa which would make the hair of his hearers stand on end. The fact of the matter was, he said, that the German emperor wanted to go down to posterity as a second Napoleon. Incidentally he also wanted a place to send Germany's surplus population and South Africa appealed to him as a suitable place.

The speech was received by the Boers with cheers and a resolution of confidence in General Botha was carried by acclamation.

BUGMASTER OF BRUSSELS HAS BEEN RELEASED

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) London, Sept. 29.—Burgomaster Max of Brussels, who was arrested yesterday on the order of the German military governor on the charge that he had ordered the banks to refuse to pay an installment of the indemnity which was due, has been released, according to an Ostend dispatch to the Exchange Telegram company. The release followed the payment to the Germans of 20,000,000 francs ($4,000,000).

The war tax levied against Brussels after the Germans had occupied the Belgian capital was said at the time to be $40,000,000.

MAY AGAIN ACT AS INTERMEDIARY FOR HIS PEOPLE.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Brussels, via London, Sept. 29.—The release of Burgomaster Max again gives the picturesque mayor of the captured Belgian capital a chance to serve as intermediary between his people and the Germans, a position which he has filled with extraordinary originality.

When the invaders entered the city he procured very liberal terms from them by promising good behavior on the part of his people. By means of posters distributed over the dead walls of the city, M. Max conveyed orders and war news to his people after the regular press had been suppressed and when this was forbidden he mounted the steps of the town hall every morning and read out the Belgian version of the war news, which did not always correspond with dispatches printed in official German papers.

Burgomaster Max was put in jail from which he has just been released over a dispute on the question of payment of the indemnity demanded by the Germans.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush the Kidneys at once when Backache or Bladder bothers. Meats form uric acid.

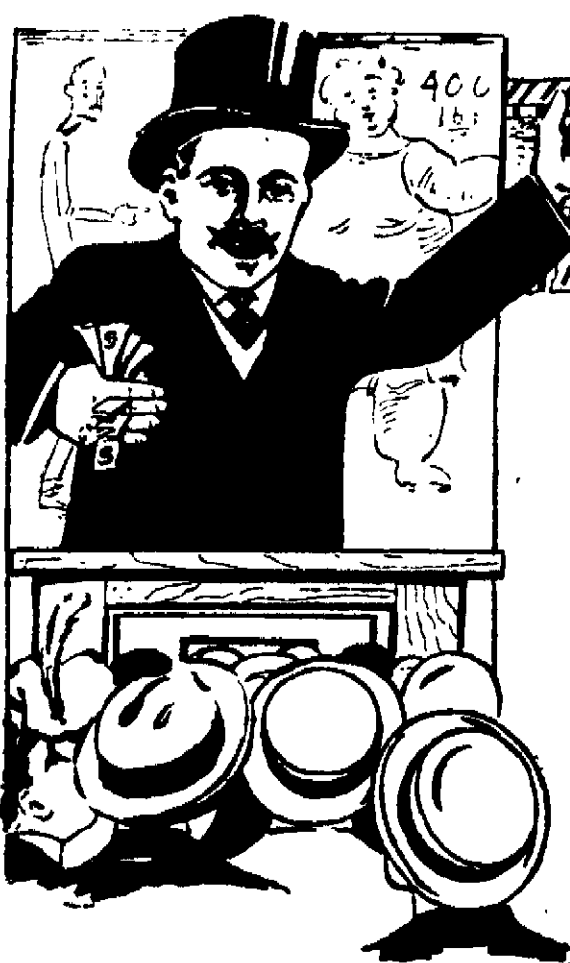

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a wellknown authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidneys and strains only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure. Makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

STATE AUDITOR FILES REPORT ON TREASURY

John P. Brennan Has Shown Himself of "Signal Ability and Absolute Fidelity."

Columbus, Sept. 29.—State Auditor Vic Donahay today filed with the governor his quarterly report of the examination of the state treasury. In the report Mr. Donahay called the governor's attention to the fact that the examination was made by experts in his department of opposite politics. The state auditor believes that, by doing this, if the occasion should arise, there would be no opportunity for examiners giving a clean bill of health to a department which did not deserve it.

Mr. Donahay says in the report that John P. Brennan, state treasurer, has shown himself to be an official of "signal ability and absolute fidelity," and compliments him on the fact that he has earned $536,355.34 in interest for the state since January, 1913.

"The fleet has attacked the Hiti fort effectively, aided by the army."

CRASH

OF TRAINS IN NEW YORK SUBWAY FOLLOWED BY WORST TRAFFIC CONGESTION

In History of the City Many Victims of Other Transportation Accidents.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

New York, Sept. 29.—Three collisions of subway and surface cars sent 18 persons, more than half of them women, to hospitals today. Two of the injured were said to be mortally hurt. Four persons were injured in a crash between subway trains at 142d street and Lexington avenue. The subway was blocked and tens of thousands of persons were delayed on their way to work.

Six persons were the victims of a collision between surface cars in the center of the 145th street bridge over the Harlem river.

One car that had been struck, deserted by crews and passengers and not held by its brake, then shot down the incline of the bridge and crashed into another trolley car at the end of the bridge.

Eight more persons were taken to hospitals as the result of this accident.

The traffic congestion that followed the collision in the subway was the worst in the history of the city. At several stations more than 5,000 persons crowded on the platform and those nearest the rails were forced entirely off and, in some cases, walked along the tracks between stations in perilous proximity to the deadly third rail. Surface cars were crowded till passengers sat in the windows.

Milk wagons, trucks and delivery carts of all descriptions were hired by the thousands waiting to get down town.

Adding to the difficulties of the situation was the stubborn fire that blazed up when the trains crashed. For ten blocks along Lenox avenue every manhole belched billows of black smoke. Firemen tried to fight the blaze by placing their hose through these thirty-inch openings, but made little headway. The underground fire raged fiercely for more than two hours.

BAD COMPLEXION PEELLED OFF AT HOME.

The girl with the poor complexion complains, "I have to touch up my cheeks. I am pale and a sight, and only my make-up saves me."

Now, as a matter of fact, more women spoil their good looks than improve them with cosmetics. The practice certainly is unnecessary, now that the virtues of ordinary mercurized wax as a beautifier have become known. It has been found that the wax has wonderful absorbent powers. It causes the faded or discolored skin to flake off in a minute, almost imperceptible particles, so gently, gradually, as to cause no inconvenience at all. In this way the old complexion is actually removed, likewise all fine lines, freckles, pimples, blotches, moth patches and other surface defects. A new complexion appears—a clear, smooth, youthful, healthy skin such as no paint, powder or lotion can produce. Mercurized wax, to be had at any drug store, in convenient size packages, is applied like cold cream.—Advertisement.

NINE COUNTIES ARE VOTED DRY IN "OLD KENTUCKY"

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 29.—Nine of 12 Kentucky counties holding options elections under the amendment extending the county unit law, passed by the last legislature, gave dry majorities yesterday.

TOURNAMENT FOR TROPHY NEARS END

The third round in the golf tournament for the Kenney cup has been finished on the Country Club course, Messrs. Franklin, Hundley, Heisey and Jones being the victors in this round. These four men will play the semi-finals this week and the two victors will fight it out for first honors probably next week.

The scores in the third round were: Franklin beat Mosteller 1 up; Hundley beat R. Miller 1 up; Jones beat Hayden Jr., 5 up 3. Heisey beat Miller 1 up. Messrs. Franklin and Hundley, and Jones and Heisey are paired for the final round.

Arrangements have been completed for a club championship play at the Country Club course, the qualifying rounds to be played before next Monday. The best sixteen players will qualify for the championship events. These contests will be played without handicaps.

REPORT CREW OF CUTTER SAVED

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, Sept. 29.—Commandant Bertholf of the revenue cutter service today received word from Unalakleet that all the officers, members of the crew and other persons aboard the cutter Tahoma when she was wrecked on an Alaskan reef, September 21, have been found and are safe.

(CONGRESS MAY ADVISE.)

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
 Washington, Sept. 29.—Recess of congress after elections was in the air in the house today and looked like a probability. Democratic leader Underwood said he expected to present a plan to the Republicans which would let members go home to their districts if an understanding could be reached on the future of the administration bill for the purchase of a merchant marine.

ATTENTION OLD GUARD.

BAD WEATHER

There is snow on the heights and floods in the valleys. The Rhine is much swollen while the Dolder, Ill and Thur rivers have overflowed. The plain between Muelhausen and the mountains is under water to a great extent and it is impossible to move heavy artillery which gives an advantage to the allies who have comparatively light guns.

Both sides are, however, handicapped and if the bad weather continues it will have the result of prolonging the campaign on this side of the Vosges and the Ardennes region.

The French people are busy preparing winter under clothing for their soldiers in the field.

ROOSEVELT

publican party. We will show these dodgers in November that the people are not for their dodging tactics."

Garfield challenged his Republican opponent, Willis, reputed to be dry, to join him and Arthur L. Garford in leading the fight for state-wide prohibition, if he was sincere, and the audience cheered the challenge.

They say Willis is dry; Garfield declared, "it is no longer a privilege to proclaim principles to all the state. Let him join Garford and myself in fighting for temperance. Let him stand with us on the side of the forces of righteousness."

Inside the big hall to an immense and enthusiastic audience Col. Roosevelt spoke as follows:

I come here to appeal with all my heart and strength for Mr. Garford, Mr. Garfield and their associates on the Progressive ticket. It is idle for a man to call himself a Progressive if he remains in either of the two old parties. There is but one way in which he can effectively champion the principles of the Progressive party and that is by acting in and through the Progressive party. If he remains in either of the old parties the net result of his activities is to strengthen the two old machines, each of which is indissolubly wedded to theories of government and to practices in actual politics which render both alike hopelessly unfit to be efficient instruments for the achieving of good in public life.

Whisky and crooked politics unquestionably have strong mutual affinities and it is natural that everywhere the liquor forces should line up against the Progressive party—sometimes behind one, sometimes behind both of the old parties. In the state this year the contest has been precipitated by the liquor men, who have forced before the voters an amendment which, if successful, would mean the abolition of all effective control over the liquor traffic and the abdication by the state of all power to minimize the damage it does.

Progressives Stand Alone.

The Progressive party alone has squarely and in the open come out to fight this amendment. The Democratic party, true to its tradition and history, is either covertly or covertly supporting it, while the Republican party has dodged the issue and is in effect working for the amendment in wet counties and against it in dry counties. I am glad that on this clear and tangible issue the Progressive party has placed itself squarely on the right side and squarely against the two old parties.

Of course the whisky interests care even more for the control of the legislature than for the control of the governor. It is wicked wisdom on their part and exposed folly on the part of their opponents to support a dry candidate for governor who shall have behind him a wet legislature. In such event the dry candidate for governor can accomplish nothing for temperance, while the liquor forces will have captured the governmental stronghold, of which they most desire to take possession. Namely, the legislative body of the state. The dry candidate for governor who seeks election from the liquor forces inevitably plays into their hands and, whether willingly or unwillingly, deserts the cause of decent citizenship.

In politics of today the Progressives stand for the effort to get the plain people seriously to think of the present and the future, and no longer to dance in fetters at the command of the machines' leaders of the old parties. Neither of the old parties have the will or the power fearlessly to face, and neither has the understanding to grapple with, the conditions of the present day. Both of them represent the spirit of reactionary conservatism. The leaders on both sides beat their drums over the issues that are dead and gone, and hope by the noise to delude the voters into paying no heed to the issues that are vital in our own time.

Seek Freedom for People.

Now, friends, what we are in essence trying to do, is to free the people from bondage to mere names. We only ask that each man think for himself and then act as he thinks. If you do not agree with us, if you sincerely believe in the impotent sterility and insincere demagoguery of the Democratic party, or in the sinister combination of what is evil in politics and evil in business which at the present time dominates, controls and shapes the policy of the Republican party, then you are right to be against us. But if you agree with us in our labor program, our tariff program, in our policies for national honor and interest abroad, and in our policies for the preservation and development, and at the same time for the same democratization of our industries at home, then we ask you to support us. We believe that the average decent citizen of this country will support our policies as soon as, through the mists of misrepresentation and the noisily hostility of the clamor against us, he is able to reach an understanding of what our policies are. When this has been done, all that we ask of him is that he assert his manhood and vote as he thinks.

We are doing all we can to bring the real facts before the ordinary decent citizens who from motives of misguided loyalty, or from failure to understand the real issues, and against their own real interests, are supporting the two old boss-ridden machines. We are trying to make these citizens realize that we are really fighting their battles; that we are fighting the leaders of the rank and file of both the old parties; and that when they support the two old political machines, they support the very men who are banded together to exploit and depress these same decent ordinary citizens. The two old machines are in the position of two sets of medieval robber barons. They are eager and ready to fight one another for the privilege of exploiting the common people. But with no less eagerness they join in united action against the common people when the common people revolt against the machines and against the conscienceless professional politician; just exactly as the robber barons of medieval times forgot their mutual hatreds and joined together to put down any uprising of the serfs whom they oppressed.

By their very nature the old parties are incapable of efficiently forwarding the economies, industrial and social reforms demanded by the present day. They will not keep the pledges they make. The Democratic party, for example, explicitly and again and again pledged itself through the utterance of its leaders to a law creating national presidential primaries. It is an outrage that we have not taken to give it to us. All the promises of most importance to the people which were made on the stump by the old parties in the last two campaigns have been broken by them as soon as they were given the power to carry them out. The two old parties are fossilized in form and in substance; they are fossilized in party organization, and fossilized in the thought of their leaders. They cannot and will not deal with the new issues in adequate fashion.

World Needs Conservation.
 Every effort is made and often successfully made by our opponents to show that we are "unsafe," that we are too "radical," and unfit to be trusted with the handling of the interests of the nation. Friends, the truth is that in this world the needs of a wise conservatism can only be met by a sane and steady forward movement, by just such a movement as that embodied in the Progressive party. It is the men who go sanely forward, the men of wise and cool-headed radicalism, who alone can be trusted in very fact to conserve all that should be conserved in our social and industrial structure. The bourgeois and reactionaries are in the long run the worst foes of conservative interests; exactly as on the other hand the wild extremists who preach an impossible and indeed an immoral radicalism are themselves the worst enemies of reform. In France before the revolution a sane effort to remove the worst abuses was made by a great statesman named Turgot. Had his advice been followed and his actions sustained the nation would have entered into the path of sane reform and all chance of violence avoided. But the bourgeois and reactionaries would have none of his reforms. They undermined his power, they slandered him and assailed him; they drove him from public life, undid what he had already done and put an end to the policy he had inaugurated. That was their hour of triumph and mightily they revelled in it. But it lasted less than a score of years. Then the revel of the Bourbons was stopped in awful fashion by the red terror of the revolution. The men who would have been more than con-

made more in all this country no action taken by any body of American citizens is more hopeful for the country than the action taken by the Progressives of Louisiana. Moreover, of all the members of the Progressive party there are none who more emphatically deserve well of the party and well of the nation. It is out of the question that the old Republican party can ever secure the confidence of the south; and the actions of its responsible masters in the north at the present time show that its deliberate purpose is to become the bulwark of Bourbon antagonism to advance throughout the nation. It is out of the question that the old Democratic party, wedded to our worn principles of government and dead and buried economic theories, can ever do real good, north or south. A new party is needed to meet the new needs of the new day. A new party is needed to give scope to the activities of the men of the new generation and of those men of the older generation who are still young in heart.

The national platform of the Progressive party is in very deed a national platform, a platform as emphatically in the interest of the south as of the north, of the west as of the east—a platform upon which all far-sighted and upright citizens in every state and every section can stand without mental reservation.

It is a prime necessity for all of us to consider the industrial and economic questions affecting our nation. The welfare of the wage worker is one of the prime objects of our government. The Progressive party is the only party that has developed a reasoned and balanced economic and industrial program for the welfare of the business man, the wage worker and the farmer alike. Each has his own special interests, but in addition each has in common the greatest of all interests. I believe in trades unions. I believe in the right of the workmen to collective bargaining. I believe in protecting him, and guaranteeing him all his rights, and in the same way I believe in demanding from him the performance of all his duties. In other words, I believe in giving him a square deal, just as we believe in giving the business man and the farmer a square deal. We are all of us American citizens first, and business men, professional men, farmers or wage workers, next.

I can not too strongly emphasize the need that the different parties in interest, the public, the investors who supply the capital, the men who supply the management, and the wage workers, shall all remember the fourfold need to be met. There must be justice to all the parties in interest. There must be no effort to get improper profit for one at the expense of the others, and this is not merely on the ground of morality, but because such an effort, even if temporarily successful, ultimately brings ruin to everybody.

Supervision is Necessary.

It is for this reason that it is necessary, as events have shown, to exercise such supervision and control by the government over men engaged in big business as to prevent swindling by unscrupulous men. If men make fortunes by watering stocks or by any improper financial transaction, other men have to pay for those fortunes. Either investors fail to receive a proper return on their investments or entirely lose their investment, or else workmen fail to receive proper wages; or else the public receives poor and expensive service. Therefore there is absolute need of honesty in business. But there is no less need of efficiency. An honest man who is supporting himself by work on his own property will go to the wall no matter how honest he is if he is inefficient. If he is lazy or shiftless or wrong-headed. Any farming community will furnish you abundant examples to this effect. The farmer must be efficient, he must be hard working and intelligent and enterprising, or he won't succeed, no matter how honest he is. In just the same way no business will succeed, even if honestly managed, unless it is efficiently and economically managed, and those who contribute to the efficiency must share in the accruing benefits. But there won't be any benefits at all unless there is efficiency. The wage workers acting individually and through their unions have on the one hand the right to a full share in the results of the efficiency to which they contribute, and on the other hand they have the duty to contribute to the efficiency. This is a two-sided obligation, and failure to recognize either side means calamity, and probably destruction. To obtain efficiency in business at the expense of the wage worker or without giving him a share in the resulting benefit is utterly wrong and should not be tolerated. On the other hand, failure on the part of the wage worker to contribute to the efficiency, and above all any effort to limit the efficiency of the work done, is no less wrong and no less intolerable. Employer and employees alike should recognize these facts. But the government also must act. Our governmental policy should be aimed at securing a proper division of property, or there will be nothing left to divide. The policies that have been formulated and enacted into law in Washington during the last year and a quarter, for example, have not in the smallest degree helped to secure a greater justice in the distribution of prosperity, and yet they have very seriously interfered with the existence of prosperity. Instead of helping to make everybody a little better off, they have helped to make everybody distinctly worse off. The prime need is to put a stop to the policies that tend to make everybody worse off, and at the same time not in the mere swing of the pendulum to go to the foolish extreme of standing by policies which will make some of our people better off, but not help the bulk to become better off. It is the Progressive party alone which has had the boldness and far-sighted honesty to propose a program which will help to achieve these two results which all honest citizens ought to have in view.

Wedded to Ideals.

Both the old parties are wedded to their ideals. The Republican party by every action it has taken during the past two years has made it evident that it intends to see that the rank and file are shackled and are put completely under the control of the great bosses of the stamp of Mr. Penrose and Mr. Barnes. Even when they deem it wise to substitute other and less notorious men in the place of prominence, they adhere to precisely the same doctrines and policies that enthroned the old-time bosses in power as representatives of the allied forces of what is worst in business and worst in politics.

On the other hand, the Democratic party, which has possessed absolute power in Washington for the last two years, has shown not the faintest symptom of a real understanding of the needs of the people. It has done nothing whatever for labor, and its action on the trusts and the tariff have shown that it is not fit to run the government. With the trusts they have adopted the policy of firing "so as to hit it if it is a bear and to miss it if it is a calf." In theory they wish to make believe that they intend to break up all combinations. At the same time they are endeavoring half-heartedly and unthinkingly to fitch our policy, which they so bitterly denounced two years ago, and to adopt the policy which we then outlined in regard to dealing with the trusts. But they are doing it in such inadequate fashion that little good can come of it.As regards the tariff, two years ago they promised to reduce the tariff in such fashion that while American industries would not be harmed the trusts would be broken up, and the cost of living would be reduced. No one of these things has been done. The trusts have not been affected excepting that their smaller competitors have been so hurt as to relieve the trusts of some of their domestic competition. The cost of living has not been reduced. But the ability of the average man to earn a living has been threatened or impaired. Here again only the Progressive program offers you any hope of relief. It was the makers of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill who were responsible for the present Wilson-Underwood tariff. It was their excuses in helping special privilege which brought about this violent and foolish reaction. If they are again enthroned in power we will assuredly see another violent reaction and another convulsion.Change Was Necessary. When the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill was passed I was abroad. When I came home I first accepted the statement about it made by those responsible for it, and did my best loyally to support it for it was with the greatest reluctance that I severed my connection with my old party associates; and then I did so only when I was forced to the conclusion that they had become the servants, not of the country, but of certain special interests. The working of the then existing tariff had become such that a change was necessary, and no doubt for the moment the change even to the Payne-Aldrich tariff represented a slight improvement. After months of examination, however, I was finally forced into the belief that the improvement was so small as not properly to balance the price paid in improper concessions to privileged interests. I then came to the conclusion to which I had already for some years been tending, that the trouble was really fundamental, and inherent in our method of tariff making. I became convinced that to change all the schedules at once by the direct initiative of congress inevitably led to the subordination of general welfare to special interests. In other words, I came to the conclusion that whatever might be the good intentions of the men whose names were attached to the various tariff laws successively enacted by congress, yet these tariff laws, because of the method used in making them, could not fail to express primarily the adroit and unscrupulous ability of the interested advocates of various privileged interests. The recent experience in making the Wilson-Underwood tariff bill has absolutely justified this conclusion. The present tariff was made on precisely the principles which its makers had so loudly denounced in connection with the Payne-Aldrich bill. It pandered to a different set of interests, but it pandered just as much to special interests as did the Payne-Aldrich bill. I did not question the honesty of purpose of the framers of one measure more than of the other measure. I deem both of the measures vicious. One went to an extreme in one direction, just as the other went to an extreme in the opposite direction. In each case the viciousness was inherent in the system followed in making the bill. Paid Lip Loyalty. Each party has sporadically paid lip loyalty to the principle of a tariff commission and each has abandoned this principle when it had the opportunity to enforce it. The Progressive party and the Progressive party alone has consistently advocated the one principle of establishing a genuine tariff commission of nonpartisan experts, who shall intelligently consult the interests of manufacturer, wage worker and general public alike and shall make recommendations for the alteration of specific schedules, one at a time, as experience and the application of trained and practical good sense shall show the needs of each situation. Economic stability and industrial efficiency can be secured only by adopting the Progressive platform. Under the Republican scheme a few men prosper too much. Under the Democratic scheme nobody prospers enough. The Progressive platform alone really does provide first for securing prosperity and next for passing prosperity around. I wish to point out to you how the crisis through which we are now passing has accentuated the need of the policies we Progressives advocate. Take the question of sugar. At present the price of sugar has gone up immensely in this country. The greatest contributing cause has been the action of congress in entirely removing the duty from sugar. If the duty had been gradually decreased sugar growers would not have abandoned the production of the crop, but as it was, very many, probably a very large majority of the sugar growers, abandoned any attempt to produce a full crop and often any attempt to produce a crop at all. In consequence, when the emergency caused by the war came, the shortage was felt directly by our own people. There could be no more striking illustration of the extremely desirability of destroying an essential industry. We are here a continental nation. It is eminently desirable that we should have the widest commercial intercourse with all other nations, but it is no less desirable that we should keep our ability to produce ourselves the things that are fundamentally necessary to us. The cataclysm that has befallen Europe shows that it is merely utopian for any nation to trust to anything except its own sufficiency unto itself. This does not mean that in ordinary times we should actually subsist on what is within our own borders, but it does mean that we should keep our industries in such condition as to be able to subsist if necessary. If instead of destroying our whole sugar industry at a blow, we had established a commission of experts to deal with this as well as with other problems, there can be no doubt that the sugar tariff would have been handled with wisdom instead of with the extreme folly that actually marked its handling. Many well-meaning but unwise persons had been taught that the way to attack the sugar trust was to destroy all duties on sugar. The experiment was tried. It had not the smallest effect on the sugar trust of an adverse kind, and indeed it is perfectly possible that it benefited the sugar trust. The persons immediately and unfavorably affected were the sugar growers, not only in Louisiana, but elsewhere, in the Rocky mountain states, on the Pacific slope, in Ohio and Michigan. Now the damage comes upon the whole public. Germany's great economic development during the forty-three years preceding this lamentable war has been due to various causes, not the least important of which was her intelligent use of a tariff commission. This tariff commission has not been influenced by any wild theories either about absolute free trade or ultra-excessive protection, but has advocated the raising and lowering of tariffs from time to time in any particular industry with a view to what was best not only for that industry, but for the country at large. The result has been eminently successful, for during the same period, and especially during the last five years, our own handling of the tariff has been unwise and unjust, and has marked a violent swing of the pendulum first to one side and then to the other. The Progressive proposal of an expert, impartial, nonpartisan tariff commission offers the only real hope for good business from the standpoint of the consumer, of the manufacturer, of the merchant, of the business man, the wage worker and the farmer alike. Many Dislocations in Business. The same thing is true of our method of attempting to handle combinations. During the last month, under the strain of war in Europe, all kinds of dislocations have occurred in our business. The price of the necessities of life and especially of food, has shot up greatly, for example, in New York. The cotton trade has found itself at a point where no one can tell what ought to be done. In both cases there was most urgent need of a proper combination among the business men, and especially among the small business men engaged in handling the staples of life. In each case such combination was rendered either difficult or impossible by the fact that our foolish law prohibits all combination, good or bad, and does not empower any national governmental body to supervise and control such combinations from the outset so as to ensure their usefulness to the general public. In New York city at one time during this past month the small provision dealers were anxious to come together in consultation, not only in the interests of their customers but in their own interests, as to how to handle flour, a necessary of life, in order to make it possible for poor people to get flour at as little added expense as possible. Yet under the decision of the courts under such a decision as that in the Harvester case, for instance, these small business men found themselves in a position where they might be prosecuted for even talking over an understanding that would be vitally necessary in the interest of the community at large. The court in the Harvester case decided that what the Harvester company had done was beneficial to the country as a whole, but that it was illegal. Surely it is monstrous to keep unchanged a law where a court is obliged to render such a decision. It is perfectly true that a corporation like the Harvester trust may do wrong exactly as the smaller concerns out of which it was made unquestionably did do wrong before the combination took place. It is perfectly possible that the small provision dealers in New York might join together in a crisis like this and do what was inimical to the interests of their customers. It is perfectly possible that the cotton growers might form a combination to do wrong. But it is equally possible in each case that the combination will be such as to be not harmful but beneficial, and perhaps almost essential to the welfare of the public at large. All combinations of this kind, good and bad alike, ought not to be prohibited. These with a beneficial purpose and use should be encouraged, but supervised and controlled, and all others should be effectively suppressed. The effort to prohibit them all is futile in any event. It merely means that the small men and honest men are hampered, while the unscrupulous men do whatever they choose. What is needed is a government commission with power to tell honest business men from the beginning what it is right for them to do and what it is wrong for them to do, and power to supervise from the beginning the steps taken in bringing about a combination so as to be sure that it is useful and not harmful to the public at large. This is exactly what the Progressive party in its platform advocated. If that platform were embodied into law the government would have a commission under whose wise supervision and control the cotton growers and the small men in the cotton business would be able to combine to protect themselves against unscrupulous big interests and to be of service both to themselves and to the general public.

Emphasized by Events.

What has happened during the last month or six weeks emphasizes in clearest fashion the practical good sense of the policy the Progressives have advocated. It is just as essential a policy in Louisiana as in Ohio or New York or in Washington. It can not be carried out by the states. It must be carried out by the nation.

we are a great nation, and we must think nationally and act nationally. We are dealing with great modern economic and social problems, and we must not think about them in terms of the stage coach and the flint-lock musket. Our people must realize that the world has grown beyond the flint-lock musket stage in government and business no less than in war. To try to prevent all combination is utterly foolish. Honest business men, and especially honest small business men, have exactly the same right to combine that honest wage workers and honest farmers have to combine. In all cases, as regards wage workers, farmers and business men alike, the combination should be supervised and controlled by the government so as to make it subservient and not hostile to the public good; and in the case of big business the necessity for such supervision and control is far greater than in the case of small business, or of the farmers. But in every case there should be government supervision, and in every case the combination should be permitted so long as and to the extent that it is useful and not harmful, not only to the people concerned but to the general public. The ignorant effort to force us back to the period of unlimited cut-throat competition between rival concerns is productive of nothing but evil.

Gentlemen, a couple of years ago our standard opponents, the Bourbons and reactionaries of business who made common cause with the machine leaders and corruptionists in politics, denounced us as anarchists and communists. If you will now soberly consider the platform drafted by the Progressives at Chicago you will be forced to the conclusion that it represents the one sane effort made by any party to meet the new conditions of the new day in efficient fashion so as to strive to do justice to everyone, to give fair play to all our people, and to give a square deal to big men and little men alike.
